

Peaceful Country with Good Democratic System

There's a big different between peaceful country with the full-conflict country. Most of peaceful country is having a solid unite. And this unite can be achieved by the good democratic system. With good democratic system, people have freedom to show their feeling, expression and opinion. That makes them feel more valuable and government give more attention to their right. Maybe this is the system that suitable with the modern era, where many people have many things to say.

But, to create this condition, there's many countries that need to spill blood and war. But, in the end, the peaceful condition that they have. And that's a good paid for all that sacrifices.
